Kamakailan, nakipagpulong tayo sa National Archives of the Philippines upang kunin ang kanilang gabay at teknikal na expertise. Layunin natin na mas mapatatag ang ating sentro, hindi lang bilang repository ng ating mga mahalagang dokumento at cultural artifacts, kundi bilang venue para sa exhibits, workshops, at performances na nagdiriwang sa ating kultura. Sa paraang ito, mapapanatili at mabibigyang-buhay natin ang ating mga tradisyon at kaugalian para sa susunod na henerasyon. #AlagangAteLani #LoveMyBacoor

Bacoor LGU extends...

The distribution was facilitated through the City Housing, Urban Development & Resettlement Department (HURD), led by Atty. Aimee T. Neri, with Mayor Strike Revilla personally overseeing the turnover to beneficiaries now residing in Naic, Cavite.

City officials emphasized that extending assistance remains a priority to ensure the well-being of families as they transition to safer and more stable living environments.

These families were among those affected by government projects aligned with the Supreme Court Mandamus directing local governments to rehabilitate and restore major waterways. The relocations aim to safeguard vulnerable communities while supporting long-term environmental protection and disaster risk reduction.

Revilla assured the residents that the City of Bacoor remains committed to supporting them even after their transfer, emphasizing that relocation does not diminish the city's responsibility to its people.

"Although you are now in Naic, you are still part of Bacoor. We will continue to bring our projects and services to your new community," he said during the distribution activity, noting that additional livelihood and social welfare initiatives are also being prepared for relocated families.

The beneficiaries came from barangays Kaingin-Digman, Mabolo, Zapote 1, Niog, Salinas 2, Aniban 2, and Habay 1 and 2. The city government said the initiative aims to assist families who have already settled in safer housing sites, as well as those currently in the process of relocation.

Officials said the program is part of a broader effort to ensure that no Bacoor resident is left behind during the transition to more secure, disaster-resilient communities. (Ruel Francisco, PIA Cavite)

DHSUD deploys modular housing units for fire victims; to serve as 4PH staging area

The Department of Human Settlements and Urban Development (DHSUD) on Tuesday turned over modular housing units (MHUs) to San Juan City government, which will serve as temporary shelters for more than 100 families who were rendered homeless by a fire incident.

DHSUD Secretary Jose Ramon Aliling said that the deployment of MHUs was in compliance with President Ferdinand R. Marcos Jr.'s directive to avoid displacement of families affected by calamities or government projects.

Secretary Aliling said that the MHUs will also serve as a staging area for a project under the President's flagship Expanded Pambansang Pabahay para sa Pilipino (4PH) Program, also in San Juan City.

"Ang utos ng Pangulo ay walang madi-displace sa ating mga kababayan na nabi-biktima ng sakuna o kaya naman ay apektado ng mga proyekto ng gobyerno," Secretary Aliling said.

"Sa ngayon, ang mga MHUs ay magsisilbing komportableng pansalamantalang matutuluyan ng mga nabiktima ng sunog. Ito rin ay gagamitin na staging area para sa Expanded 4PH project natin dito sa San Juan City," he added.

The fire victims are also potential beneficiaries of Expanded 4PH.

Close collaboration between the DHSUD and San Juan City Mayor Francis Zamora paved the way for the establishment of the Expanded 4PH Staging Area in Barangay Batis. It can accommodate

The said project is the first operational in-city staging area under the Expanded 4PH Program in Metro Manila.

"Patunay po ito sa patuloy na pag-susulong ng DHSUD, alinsunod sa direktiba ni Pangulong Marcos Jr., sa ligtas, disente at may dignidad na pabahay para sa lahat," Secretary Aliling said.

November 24-30, 2025

The Expanded 4PH project in San Juan City will be implemented by the Social Housing Finance Corporation, headed by President Federico Laxa, who assured the fast delivery of the vertical permanent housing.

"Hindi po traditional construction technology ang gagamitin natin dito kundi mas mabilis po na teknolohiya po ang gagamitin kaya mas mabilis. Pero sinisigurado namin sa inyo na magiging matibay talaga ang proyekto," Laxa explained.

PH, Japan navies deepen security ties in Tokyo meet

MANILA – The Philippine Fleet is tightening its naval embrace with Japan as both countries accelerate security cooperation amid Beijing's growing assertiveness in the West Philippine Sea and wider Indo-Pacific.

Rear Adm. Joe Anthony Orbe, commander of the Philippine Fleet, led a delegation to Japan this week for a string of high-level engagements with the Japan Self-Defense Fleet (JSDF) and the Japan Maritime Self-Defense Force (JMSDF) — a visit that comes as Manila scrambles to broaden its strategic partnerships.

On Nov. 20, Orbe met JSDF Commander Vice Adm. Katsushi Omachi in Yokosuka where both sides acknowledged the "growing frequency" of joint activities, from maritime patrols to humanitarian assistance and disaster relief (HADR) drills, a trajectory supercharged by the newly signed Philippines–Japan Reciprocal Access Agreement (RAA).

The pact will allow faster interoperability through shared exercises, logistics and troop access.

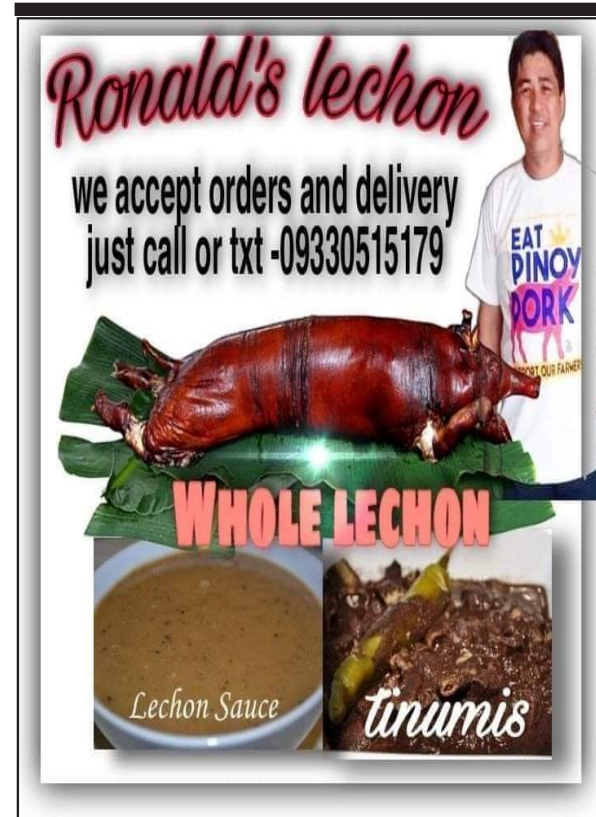

The delegation also toured JS Kumanō, one of Japan's next-generation frigates, as Tokyo continues expanding its defense role in the region amid rising Chinese pressure on regional sea lanes.

The following day, Orbe paid a courtesy call on JMSDF Chief of Staff Adm. Akira Saito in Tokyo.

Saito welcomed Manila's growing openness to deeper security ties, stressing the importance of "working closer together" to maintain a free and open Indo-Pacific.

The visit underscores the Philippine Fleet's accelerating pivot toward like-minded security partners as Manila faces increasingly hostile encounters inside its own exclusive economic zone, from water-cannon attacks to dangerous Chinese maneuvers in and around West Philippine Sea. Coco Fiesta 2025...

The Agricultural Training Institute (ATI) CALABARZON gathered media partners, coconut farmers, and exhibitors for its Coco Fiesta Media Hour: Huntahan sa Pagniniyugan held at SM City Trece Martires.

The Coco Fiesta 2025 showcased a series of major government initiatives aimed at strengthening the country's coconut industry. The Philippine Coconut Authority (PCA) unveiled its ambitious plan to plant 100 million coconut trees nationwide to help the Philippines reclaim its position as the world's leading coconut producer. This replanting drive will replace old, unproductive trees and boost farmers' yields and income.

Under the Coconut Farmers and Industry Development Plan (CFIDP), the government also rolled out free medical and dental services for coconut farmers through mobile clinics and partner health teams, ensuring they receive regular and accessible care.

Youth engagement took center stage as DA–ATI and PCA introduced expanded opportunities through scholarships, internships, and the upcoming "Cocobataan" program, which will train young Filipinos in modern coconut farming and agribusiness.

PCA further pushed for the creation of Young Coconut Farmers Associations to empower youth leaders and strengthen community involvement in the coconut value chain.

To protect farms, PCA and DA–ATI strengthened rapid-response protocols against coconut pests, including improved surveillance, biological controls, and emergency deployment teams to quickly contain outbreaks.

Officials also emphasized that existing national laws continue to protect agricultural lands from conversion, preserving them for long-term food production and the stability of the coconut sector.

The event underscored the agency's recognition of media as a key stakeholder in driving public awareness and trust in Universal Health Care (UHC) programs.

With the theme “Katuwang sa Kuwento ng UHC at Sama-samang Paglilingkod,” the gathering served as a convergence point for communication professionals and PhilHealth leaders to align on shared goals of health

PNP intensifies coordination with authorities to locate Cassandra Ong

MANILA — The Philippine National Police has stepped up coordination with international law enforcement authorities to locate and arrest Cassandra Ong, a key figure linked to the controversial Philippine offshore gaming operator (POGO) hub Lucky South 99.

“Gagawin ng PNP ang lahat upang mapabalik siya dito at maharap niya ang mga kaso laban sa kanya (The PNP will do everything to bring her back to the country so she could face the charges against her),” acting PNP chief Lt. Gen. Jose Melencio Nartatez Jr. said in a statement on Sunday.

According to the Presidential Anti-Organized Crime Commission

(PAOCC), Ong fled the country early this year and was last monitored in Japan after her release from detention.

Ong is facing an active warrant of arrest issued by the Pampanga Regional Trial Court in May for qualified human trafficking in connection with the alleged illegal operations of the Porac, Pampanga-based Lucky South 99.

Nartatez said they will be closely working with the International Criminal Police Organization following the issuance of a Red Notice for Ong. “The PNP is committed to delivering justice to the victims of illegal POGO hubs,” he said. “Those involved in these illegal operations must face the consequences of their actions.”

The PNP's move is in line with the directive of President Ferdinand R. Marcos Jr. to strengthen law enforcement actions against illegal

POGO operations and ensure full accountability for human trafficking offenders. (PNA)

Mekeni Strengthens Culture of ‘Malasakit’ Through Annual Gift-Giving Tradition

Kindness, when shared consistently, creates lasting impact. This belief continues to guide Mekeni Food Corporation (Mekeni) as it carried out its annual gift-giving program on October 24, 2025, extending care and support to communities in need across Pampanga.

This yearly initiative, rooted in the company's core value of malasakit, once again brought together Mekeni employees who visited four local institutions: Munting Tahanan ng Nazareth in Mabalacat City, and Bahay Pag-ibig and Children's Home of Eucharistic Love and Kindness in San Fernando.

With heartfelt participation from volunteers, the company turned over essential goods such as food products and toiletries to residents of these care centers, sharing warmth and hope with children, the elderly, and persons with disabilities.

“This program reminds us that compassion is most meaningful when it becomes part of who we are,” said Mr. Prudencio S. Garcia, President of Mekeni. “Every year, our people come together not only to give, but to listen, connect, and show that the community can always count on us. That is the kind of malasakit we want to nurture at Mekeni.”

More than a company initiative, the gift-giving has evolved into a shared tradition, made possible through the collective efforts of Mekeni employees, who continue to contribute financially and in kind.

“Our employees have always been at the heart of this program,” said Ms. Marilou Uy, Assistant Vice President for HR and Exports. “Their generosity and volunteerism embody Mekeni's spirit of unity and service.”

Echoing this, Ms. Apple Garcia, HR Head, emphasized the deeper purpose of the program: “What we do may seem simple, but the smiles we see and the hope we bring make a world of difference.”

For over three decades, Mekeni has remained steadfast in its mission to uplift lives and nurture a culture of compassion. Through initiatives like this, the company continues to prove that true success is best measured by the positive change it inspires in others.

From talent pool to powerhouse: The Philippines prepares to be the next global animation hub with Animahenasyon 2025

The country's animation industry has come a long way since legendary Filipino cartoonist Larry Alcala created a short black-and-white animated clip featuring a girl doing jump rope and a boy playing with a yo-yo on 8mm film in 1953.

According to the Animation Council of the Philippines, Inc. (ACPI), in 2024, the Philippines contributed approximately US$60 million in revenue to a US$413 billion-worth global animation market and employed over 7,500 professionals locally. The Filipino animation industry is also projected to be worth US$141 million and employ over 15,000 professionals by 2028, making it an even more significant driver of economic activity and job creation in the country.

The promise of exponential growth in the next few years signals the local industry's readiness to take the next step, and Animahenasyon aims to lead the way. Organized by ACPI, the country's premier annual animation festival partners with the Center for International Trade Expositions and Missions' (CITEM) CREATEPhilippines to stage its 19th edition, which happens on November 24 – 26 at multiple points across Metro Manila.

Since its inception in 2007, the festival has provided both veteran and emerging animators with a platform where they can showcase their works and keep updated on global industry trends. Its signature activities make a return this year, not just to champion Filipino animation talents but also to make independent Filipino-made titles accessible to the public.

Animahenasyon 2025 opens on November 24 with the film screening ceremony AniSine at The Shangri-La Red Carpet Cinema. Then, on November 25, it will hold AniTalk, a conference discussing the latest trends and developments in animation, at The Samsung Hall of SM Aura Premiere in Taguig. Immediately following the activity, also at The Samsung Hall, will be the annual AniKompetisyon Awarding, a prestigious ceremony that recognizes and gives Filipino animators the impetus to further push their skills and combine artistry and storytelling with technical excellence. This year, the award-giving body received more than a hundred entries, each one vying to be part of the top 10 finalists for the chance to win in the following categories: the Animehenasyon Audience Choice Award, the Toon City Choice Award, and the Grand Prize in the Student and Professional divisions.

Animation festival's new trade component a potential game-changer

Animahenasyon 2025 aims to build on the Philippines' position as a trusted center for outsourced creative talents and animation houses and studios, and transform it into a new international animation hub that can produce world-class original titles and content.

With CREATEPhilippines as its co-presenter, this year's edition will bring in international and local buyers, producers, and publishers who could potentially do business with local creatives. The B2B convention AniBusiness, to be held at Seda BGC on November 26, will be the concluding activity for Animahenasyon 2025.

This trade component is a first for the festival, and it will open up new avenues for international partnerships, outsourcing solutions, and co-production ventures for all players in the local animation ecosystem. Original Filipino content will also get the necessary exposure to be spotted by potential investors and distributors, which could help raise the country's profile as a veritable animation intellectual property (IP) generator.

CREATEPhilippines will facilitate Animahenasyon 2025's trade component. With the support of different Philippine Trade Investment Centers, it will invite foreign buyers and prospective investors and offer them incentives for joining the animation festival, as well as promote the event internationally. Networking and business-matching services will be complemented with the signature Filipino hospitality, giving guests a closer look into the rich Philippine history and culture that inspire the local talents' imagination.

In particular, a leisure (business plus leisure) program will be offered to foreign buyers as part of the buyer incentive package. Through AniXperience, guests will be taken on a tour through some of the country's premier destinations to take in the sights and enhance their visit to the Philippines while also meeting and networking with local animation studios and creatives. The first stop will be an exclusive tour through Intramuros on November 27, hosted by Intramuros Administration, one of Animahenasyon's government partners.

Other destinations will be San Fernando and Bacnotan in La Union, which buyers will visit on November 28. The Animahenasyon 2025 partnership between CREATEPhilippines and ACPI was cemented during a Memorandum of Agreement signing held last October 13. ACPI Executive Director Daniel Enriquez, President Marlyn Montano, and Project and Administration Officer Micah Ronquillo met with CITEM Executive Director Leah Pulido Ocampo and members of the CREATEPhilippines team to discuss collaborative efforts that will uplift the local animation industry and raise its profile worldwide.

“Filipino animators and creatives have long been key players in bringing some of the most favorite animated titles to life on the web and in film and television. It's high time that the local industry gets the recognition it deserves as a major force in the global animation scene,” CITEM Executive Director Leah Pulido Ocampo says. “Through this partnership with ACPI, we hope that this year's Animahenasyon is the start of the country making that leap toward the next stage of the Philippine animation industry's evolution.”

Animahenasyon happens on November 24 – 26, 2025 across multiple locations in the metro. Buy your tickets here.

CREATEPhilippines is the official co-organizer and co-presenter of Animahenasyon 2025. CREATEPhilippines is a promotional program for the creative industry by the Center for International Trade Expositions and Missions (CITEM), the export promotion arm of the Philippine Department of Trade and Industry (DTI).
